| Description: | As an action of the awareness campaign in the ELIH MED PROJECT (Energy Efficiency of Low Income Housing in the Mediterranean), energy saving tips are a tool for offering energy conservation ideas and ways to save energy at home for users. You can consult online or download for free. The Valencia Institute of Building, as a partner, has developed the tips according to three levels of advice: changing habits (without spending money), with small investments (with a little spending money), or retrofitting housing (with increased investments). The tips have a common simple scheme: Posing questions; What is the problem? How I can resolve it? What savings I can get? Additional information (amortization). |
